בראשית
(THE BOOK OF)
GENESIS
CAPUT. I. X
CHAPTER I.

1. In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep, and the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw that the light was good: and God separated the light from the darkness: and God called the light Day, and the darkness Night. And there were evening and morning, the first day.

2. And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it separate the waters above from the waters below. And God made the firmament, and separated the waters which were above the firmament from the waters which were below the firmament: and God called the firmament Heaven. And there was evening and morning, the second day.

3. And God said, Let the waters under the firmament be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear. And God called the dry land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters Seas. And there was evening and morning, the third day.

4. And God said, Let there be plants upon the earth. And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, and herb seed, and fruit tree, which shall bear fruit, which shall have seed. And it was so. And God said, Let the earth bring forth living creatures after their kind, cattle and creeping things, and beasts of the earth, after their kind. And it was so. And God created great whales, and every living creature that creepeth, and every beast of the earth, after their kind: and every thing that hath life, after their kind, brought forth the earth after its kind. And there was evening and morning, the fourth day.

5. And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowls of the air, and over the beasts, and over all the earth. And God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them: and God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowls of the air, and over every living creature that moveth upon the earth. And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb that bringeth forth seed upon the earth, and every tree which hath seed-bearing fruit: I have given you for food. But to the beast of the earth, and to the fowl of the air, and to every thing that hath life upon the earth, I have given every green herb for food. And it was so.

6. And God blessed the seventh day, because he rested on that day from all his work which he had done. And God said, Let us bless the day, and let us call it Sabbath, because he rested on that day from all his work which he had done. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that on that day he rested from all his work which he had done.
